May Take Man Lindbergh Case Torture Suspects

NEW YORK, N. Y., April 16.—(UP)—The murder of Paul H. Lindbergh, the father of the kidnapped baby, cleared the way today for a new investigation in New York and New Jersey of charges that four men inspired by state officials conspired to kidnap and torture him.

The Mercer-co. (Trenton) grand jury, whose investigation of Wendell Hauptmann's execution three days ago, voted "no bill" last night, clearing him of charges filed by police. He still is accused of the Lindbergh kidnaping in Hunterdon-co., where Hauptmann was tried, but there were indications the charge would be dismissed. Mrs. Anna Hauptmann swore to the charge on the day her husband was executed in a desperate effort to postpone his death.

Immediately after the grand jury acted, Prosecutor Erwin E. Marshall conferred with Assistant District Attorney Francis Madden of Kings-co. (New York City), N. Y., about plans to send Wendell to New York to help identify the man he says kidnaped him.

Investigators for Kings-co. District Attorney William F. E. Geoghan, in whose jurisdiction Wendell says he was held prisoner 10 days, already have announced that one of the motor cars used in transporting Wendell from New York to New Jersey was owned by the State Motor vehicle bureau, an agency controlled by Gov. Harold G. Hoffman.

Herbert Rinehart, 26, of 147 Rose-st., Chillicothe, was sentenced to six months in the county jail Thursday by Mayor W. J. Graham for operating an automobile after his rights to drive had been suspended.

Rinehart was arrested by Chillicothe police and returned to Circleville Wednesday evening by Chief William McCrady and Patrolman George Green. He was fined $100 and costs, $50 remitted and his driving rights suspended for six months last Friday by Mayor Graham. He pleaded guilty to a charge of driving when intoxicated.

Herbert Rinehart, 26, of 147 Rose-st., Chillicothe, was sentenced to six months in the county jail Thursday by Mayor W. J. Graham for operating an automobile after his rights to drive had been suspended.

HAPPY WHITTEN, who has worked in restaurants for miles and miles about, owns a long series of "actual happenings."

One follows:
"I worked in a restaurant where the flies were terribly thick. One day a man tried to eat a sandwich but couldn't bite the food because of the flies. I taught him how to eat that sandwich, believe me. I said: 'Buddy, here's how,' and I took the sandwich in both hands, blew as hard as I could and when the flies flew off I took a great big bite. He tried it and it worked fine."

Another of Happy's stories concerns a man who wanted a piece of cake.
Happy tells the story: "This man asked for a piece of chocolate cake, and I knew we didn't have any so I looked around. The piece of cake the man had his eye on happened to be angel's food but the flies were so thick he thought it was chocolate. I blew off the flies and he bought it any way."

WIFE IS VOTED $25,000 FOR PIQUA MAN'S LOVE

MIAMI, Fla., April 16.—(UP)—Auburn-haired Mrs. Gladys T. Orr still values the lost love of her husband at $3,000,000, although a jury of six men decided last night after nearly 10 hours of deliberation that it was worth only $25,000.

She will demand a new trial of a $1,000,000 suit against Mrs. Dorothy Clark of New York and Philadelphia, she said, and prosecute two as yet untried suits for equal amounts.

In awarding Mrs. Orr a judgment of $25,000 against Mrs. Clark last night, the jury agreed with her that Mrs. Clark wilfully stole the affections of Morrison T. Orr, wealthy Piqua, O., manufacturer. Mrs. Orr, youthful and vivacious although she has a 17-year-old son, wept yesterday when she testified about the way Mrs. Clark, a divorcee, won her husband.

TO 10,000 SOHIO SERVICEMEN AND DEALERS EMERGENCY BULLETIN

—CONCERNING THE ONE BILLION DOLLARS INVESTED IN THE AUTOMOBILES OF OHIO MOTORISTS

AT THE BEGINNING of the heavy driving season of Spring and Summer, we are requesting every Sohioan to review our established service routine presented below. The value of this procedure to our customers has been proved. It is important that it be carried out consistently.

With today's high speed motors being subjected to longer annual mileage than ever before, the need for this helpful cooperation with our customers has been greatly increased.

It is a matter of common knowledge that the majority of motor failures result from inadequate lubrication. This, generally, could be avoided if motorists would check the level and condition of motor oil more frequently—or would allow others to check it for them. A recent investigation shows that four out of every ten cars on the road today need lubrication service at this very minute.

In view of these facts, it is readily apparent that the accurate checking of the oil and lubrication requirements of all cars that visit our stations is a responsibility that we, or our patrons, cannot take too seriously.

In the main, car-owners realize that proper lubrication is the most important factor in car up-keep and have no desire to slight it. But through oversight they often do so unless we who serve them are on the alert. Let us be extremely careful that we render the oil and lubrication checking service that is so useful to them, and that they have every right to expect.

2 Remove oil bayonet, wipe it clean. Then reinsert it to measure oil level.

4 Check present mileage against SOHIO under-hood service record. Tell customer present mileage of oil and, if change is due, remind customer that it will take only 8 to 9 min.

3 Holding cloth or paper napkin under bayonet, show oil level to customer. Markings on bayonet indicate quantity of oil in crankcase—wiping bayonet will often show condition of oil.

5 If oil is changed, mark mileage and kind of oil on SOHIO Service Record so that no matter when customer may be in, the facts on oil mileage will be at his command.

TO THE INTERESTED MOTORIST:
This is a brief summary of SOHIO service due you because it will save you money and trouble in

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief Of Pain

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are one of Nature's chief ways of taking the acids and waste out of the blood. If they don't pass 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing.

If you have trouble with frequent bladder passages with scanty amount which often smart and burn, the 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait for serious trouble. Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills—which have been used successfully for over 40 years by millions of people. They give happy relief and will help flush out the 15 miles of kidney tubes. Get Doan's Pills.

I. W. Kinsey, Mrs. Clarence McAbce, Mrs. Paul Betz, and the hostess.

Mrs. McAbce and Mrs. Betz received trophies for high scores in the game following the dinner.

Club Dinner

Members of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Steele's card club enjoyed a dinner and bridge at their home on S. Court-st. Wednesday evening.

DANGERS IN THE MORNING

Heavy city traffic, of course, comes in the rush hour—or rush half-hour, if you insist—between 5 and 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

At another hour of the day, however, there is a traffic situation both dangerous and exasperating. It comes between 8 and 9 o'clock in the morning, when hundreds of men and women are hurrying to their work, when hundreds of parents are taking their children to school, and when a few hundred older students are driving their own cars to classes. Frequently in the downtown sections at that time there are traffic tie-ups. Also at that time—and more serious, to our mind—there occurs a great menace to the lives and limbs of children on their way on foot to school.

Automobiles carrying hurrying office workers to town, other cars piloted by carefree and reckless boys and girls, and still others, driven by parents who are in a hurry, fly by the crossings and through the streets near the schools. It is a constant menace, and a miracle that the congestion has resulted in fewer accidents.

TOUGH ON MILL WORKERS

IT IS ALL well enough to hear that the steel plants of the country are spending more than $200,000,000 for improvements, but "there is a fly in the ointment" when we learn further that the expansion program will cut mill labor materially.

According to the trade paper "Steel," the old type of mill, using hand labor, needed a force of 373 men around the blast; such a mill would produce 60,000 tons a year, whereas the new type of mill needs only 120 men, one-third as many, and it will produce as much in a month, as the old mill did in a year.

There is efficiency for you with a vengeance!

WORLD AT A GLANCE

Valuable as the radio is to a presidential candidate, it does not altogether take the place of personal contacts.

Of course the candidate addresses an immensely larger audience via the "mike" than he can meet face to face, but he can talk more intimately to folk he can see and be seen by than to the whole country at once "on the air."

Hence President Roosevelt's decision to make a campaign tour of most of the states, speaking briefly but pungently to crowds at scores of little whistling posts from the rear read platform of this train—the old-fashioned way of appealing to the voters, before the radio was available.

Scarcely needful to say the air will not be neglected. For the more important presidential utterances at key points the microphone will be installed. The White House tenant's corporeal presence is to supplement, not substitute for it.

TOO MANY GROUPS

The radio has one distinct disadvantage for political campaign purposes.

The order is compelled to adapt his remarks to the tastes of too many different kinds of groups of listeners at one and the same time. For example: Assume that he wishes to please an industrial gathering, hos-

SEC SUED TO STOP EXPOSURE

WASHINGTON — The Securities-Exchange Commission is being sued by five large corporations to prevent publication of the salaries and other compensation paid their officers.

Yet, simultaneously, the salaries are a matter of public record.

The suit eventually will go to the Supreme Court, but until then the SEC is not supposed to divulge the salary secrets of the five firms.

Anyone who really wants it, however, need only look through the Treasury's income tax report sent to the House Ways and Means Committee recently.

Here are the salaries which the five companies pay:

YOURS FOR PEACE

Frederick Libby of the National Council for the Prevention of War, who has offices just opposite the War Department, was selling "Peace Bonds" to finance a drive for reduction of armament. He hit upon the idea of selling them in Hollywood.

One of his buyers was Anita Louise, young screen actress. After the bond was purchased, Miss Louise consented to be interviewed and pose for the photographers.

"Miss Louise," asked one newsman, "what is your opinion of peace and war?" "Oh," replied the movie star, applying a touch of rouge, "I think peace is nicer."

CHAPTER 22

I WAS WORRYING about Mrs. Bryce, and how Keyes was approaching her. As we neared West street, where she lived, my part in coming with Keyes seemed small, despicable to me. I was tempted to stay in the car, but Keyes gave me no choice. He turned out on the curb, and waited for me to join him. I was ashamed to say that I would rather wait while he went in, so I stepped beside him, and lagged after him, as he went up the steps of a brownstone house, much the same as Van Every's. There was no sign of its being partitioned into flats, so I assumed it was occupied entirely by Mrs. Bryce. In the hall, however, were three mail boxes, one with a card indicating that Edith Bryce lived on the parlor floor.

Keyes rang the bell at the only door in the lower hall. It was opened almost immediately by a colored maid, who ushered us into one of those typical New York living rooms, well furnished, comfortable. A few fine paintings on the walls caught my eye and I went over to examine them more closely. When I turned I saw a tall woman standing in the doorway.

"Yes?" she asked softly. It was not easy to guess her age, but she seemed to me to be between 35 and 40. Her hair, dark, was graying, and her skin showed a few fine wrinkles. Her eyes were gray. She was not under her gray eyes. She was not beautiful, but there was a charm about her that interested me at once. Something about the way she carried her slim body, moved her slender, lovely hands, for they were lovely; a charm in the slow smile on her lips. She was dressed in a clinging velvet negligee.

"Mrs. Bryce?" Keyes asked, abruptly.

"Yes."

"My name is Keyes. This is Mr. Maughan. Our call will be a short one, I hope." She motioned us to chairs and we sat down. I watched her face closely, and thought I saw a flitting shadow. With the shadow, her charm was not so apparent. A green light crept into her eyes, and although she seemed perfectly natural, I was sure there was a tenseness in her body. I felt that she was waiting for something with the hand that touched and parted her hair, then lingered on the rose of her gown. With infinite grace she lighted a fragrant, mild cigarette and offered us the box. We both declined.

"I don't understand—" "I want to know, Mrs. Bryce, whether you know anything about the Camden ruby, owned at the present time by Dow Van Every?"

"Yes, I've heard of it," she said slowly. Was there a quaver in her voice, or did I only imagine it? "From Mr. Van Every?"

"Yes, he told me of it." She did not seem surprised at the mention of his name, as I had thought she would, considering what Laura Randall had said about the secrecy Van Every maintained about his liaison. "Have you ever seen the jewel?"

"No."

"Were you by any chance acquainted with Miss Younger?"

"Margalo Younger?"

"Yes."

"No, I wasn't. I understand that she was killed in Van Every's house last night."

"I read the story today," she murmured.

"You were at Van Every's house last night?" Keyes put the question quickly, but Mrs. Bryce answered just as quickly: "I have never been at Mr. Van Every's house, Mr. Keyes. He comes here occasionally—once or twice a week—but I have never been there."

Keyes was frankly disappointed, and showed it. Thanking her, we left soon after, not much wiser than we had been before we came. I told Keyes I thought the visit had been a mistake, that if Mrs. Bryce knew anything, we had put her on her guard. It would have been better, I argued, to have watched her for a few days before talking to her. "Don't worry. I'll watch her anyway. She told me much too quickly that she had never been at Van Every's. I'll find out where she was last night."

"Mrs. Bryce is a smart woman. You won't find her easy to trap." Yes, I was convinced Mrs. Bryce was nobody's fool, and something in me told me that she knew much more than she had told us. Why was her relationship with Van Every such a secret? Because my friend wished it, perhaps. Probably on account of Joyce. He wouldn't want Joyce to know. I resolved to ask him about Edith Bryce the next time I saw him. If he thought I was meddling—well, it would be unfortunate. But I thought I knew him well enough to believe he would tell me the whole story.

We stopped off at my hotel where a message was waiting from Van Every. I got him immediately. He wanted to talk to me about Joyce. He understood I had given her a "job," and he wanted to thank me. She would at least be out of mischief in the library. And I was to work her so hard that she would get over any ambitions she might have for a job. He thanked me again and again, and vowed he should have thought of a scheme like that months ago. If he could reimburse me for her salary—I laughed this away. No, I would pay the salary. It was all right, and I promised I would keep her at work as long as she wanted to work.

When I hung up the receiver I felt a little sorry for Joyce, even if her plan had worked. Van Every had swallowed it to the hilt. There was no doubt about her knowing her uncle very well.

I turned to Van Every with:

"Traced the messenger who left the note at Margalo's apartment yet?"

Keyes said he had not. He seemed despondent. "Inquest's tomorrow. Maughan, and of course you'll be there? A pity I haven't any more evidence. Every place I turn the ruby stares me in the face. I can't understand it. Seems as if the whole city of New York knew about it, and wanted to see it. Anyway I'm going home and get some sleep. As he rose to go the phone rang, and Mrs. Peoples—Margalo's maid—asked if she could come up. When I told him who my guest was to be, he decided to stay and see what she had to say. Mrs. Peoples hesitated when she saw Keyes, but I bade her sit down and asked her kindly the reason for her visit.

"So Mr. Barrimore shot himself?" she exclaimed. "I could have told you he would! I read it in the cards."

"That isn't what you've come for, Mrs. Peoples," I chided. I could see Keyes was getting impatient. He had no faith in Mrs. Peoples' cards.

"No, you're right. I found something today in the apartment." She stopped and looked at us mysteriously. Keyes was interested now. He cast a swift, penetrating look at the woman.

"The police, you know, went all through Miss Younger's things. All her letters, bills, private papers, everything. With me standing on! If Miss Younger had known! I asked for the key to her safety deposit box, and I had to give it to them. They even wanted to know her balance at the bank. The big sums she had drawn out lately, they asked about. And I told them as best I could. Some of them I knew about, some of them I didn't. One of the big checks was made out to Manuel Gonzales."

"I know, Mrs. Peoples," Keyes broke in. "A check for $7,000." This was news to me, but I said nothing. What was Margalo doing giving her Spanish poet $7,000?

"Then they told you?" Mrs. Peoples exclaimed. "They were still at the apartment when I left, looking for something more. Pulling up the rugs, taking the cushions apart, feeling through the kitchen! As if Miss Younger went into the kitchen!"

"Go on with your story," Keyes spoke in a tired, worn voice. I felt sorry for the man. His fatigue was telling on him.

Child Welfare League
Has Enjoyable Meeting

Carson Horton Gives Interesting Talk;
Dinner Precedes

The first open meeting of the Child Conservation League in the Library trustees' room Tuesday evening was a most enjoyable and successful session with Carson Horton of Columbus as the very interesting guest speaker.

Mrs. Clark Will, president of the league, spoke briefly of the organization of the club and its purpose. The League is one year old.

Mrs. Tom Renick, chairman of the program committee, then introduced Mr. Horton, a very pleasing and able talker. Mr. Horton teaches in pre-law school at Franklin university and also does social education work with delinquent boys.

He presented his subject on "Juvenile Delinquency" in an informal manner, using blackboard diagrams which made it more enjoyable.

Mr. Horton divided his talk into three parts, namely: an explanation of the scientific determination of intelligence or I. Q.; second, the normal curve of distribution, and third transmission of intelligence.

"Intelligence" he said "is the ability of human beings to profit by past experiences." This is known to educators as I. Q. or Intelligence Quotient. It is determined by a series of tests, oral, written, or otherwise. The result of said test then being divided by the chronological age of the person concerned.

Intelligence is divided into four divisions first, Abstract—the ability of a person to juggle ideas rather than objects; second, Social—pertaining to social relationship; third, Mechanical—the ability to juggle objects rather than ideas, and fourth, Music—pertaining to music.

One usually has a mixture of the first three forms of intelligence although one form may predominate. Music may be combined with the first three or it may be entirely lacking.

Mr. Horton asked, however, that a very definite distinction be made between the I. Q. of a person and the educational attainment of said person as they are not to be confused.

In discussing the normal curve of distribution he showed how intelligence ranged from the idiot at one extreme, through normal, to the genius at the other extreme. He told of the tendency of nature toward the normal, not only in intelligence but in physical things as well.

He closed his talk with a discussion of the transmission of intelligence and then asked for questions from the audience. An informal but very interesting discussion followed.

A dinner at the Pickaway Country club at 6:30 o'clock for Mr. and Mrs. Horton preceded the meeting.

Covers at the dinner were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Horton, Dr. and Mrs. G. D. Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Heffner, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Will, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Renick, Mrs.

Robert Musser, Mrs. John Eshelman, Mrs. Theodore Huston, Mrs. James I. Smith Jr., Mrs. Dorothy Smith of Hillsboro, Mrs. Max Friedman, Mrs. Ned Groom, and Frank Fischer.

The next regular meeting of the league will be held Tuesday, April 21, at 2:30 p. m. in the trustees' room.

Movie Names Filling Air; Nichols, Melton End Job

Men Predict Next Winter to See Even Greater Influx of Screen Stars; Murray is Star

ALTHOUGH THE MOVIES and radio are arch entertainment rivals, the picture stars by staying home instead of attending the theater. The reason the air has been flooded with picture names, thanks to many programs featuring "guest" celebrities and personalities, is that the picture and station records show that more than 160 movie stars and featured players have had their say over the mikes of Hollywood and New York and, occasionally, Cincinnati.

Studio opposition to air appearances continues to exist but stars are now endeavoring to have clauses preventing radio appearances eliminated from their next contracts with the celluloid show shops.

In point of numbers and radio fan appeal the film players lead by a wide margin all other celebrity fields from which the ether show makers may gather attractive names.

As a class the movie folk, of course, know a great deal more about showmanship than do the radio men in such fields as sports, politics, literature and the like. Most movie stars are on for but one night though such cinema stars as Eddie Cantor, Bing Crosby, Dick Powell, Al Jolson and the like make regularly scheduled appearances on definite air series.

Radio men believe that next winter movie people will have an even more important place on the air schedules. That would just make every radio reporter a film critic, too. In which case we may be forced to change the title of this column to "Listen—And Look—Folks."

James Melton with Red Nichols and his orchestra, concluding their present series of broadcasts, will appear on Friday program of popular and old time favorites. Melton will sing "Melody Out of the Sky," "Mother of Mine," "Sylvia" and "Carry Me Back to the Lone Prairie." Nichols and his orchestra will play "I Never Knew," "Old Black Joe," "Rhythm Saved the World" and his familiar theme "A Torrid Trumpet Walling to the Four Winds."

This broadcast will be one of the few on which listeners will have the opportunity of hearing Red Nichols sing. His selection will be "Tee a Muggin' with special verses.

THE kidneys are the scavengers and they work day and night in taking out the poisons from the system. A diuretic stimulant such as Dr. Pierce's A-nuric is often indicated and usually it is sufficient to relieve minor kidney irregularities. Read what Green B. Stephens of 1429 Pacific Ave., Route 4, Hamilton, Ohio, says: "Dr. Pierce's A-nuric Tablets are good enough for me. I would have to get up five or six times at night and my kidneys caused me much annoyance during the day too. I felt tired and dizzy and would get dizzy spells. Dr. Pierce's A-nuric Tablets put an end to these unpleasant symptoms. I have more pep, too, and no more dizzy spells." Buy now! 6c.

TOWNSEND ACTS TO CHANGE AGE FOR ATHLETES

New Eligibility Ruling Would Eliminate All Who Reach Twentieth Year

COLUMBUS, April 16.—(UP)—A partial revision of the eligibility rules of the Ohio High School Athletic Association will be made next September if member schools give their approval, Commissioner H. R. Townsend, announced here today.

The present rule age rule reads: "Contestants must be under 20 years of age at the beginning of the half of the school year in which the contest occurs."

Because pressure has been brought in some cases to change the beginning of the second semester so that the birthday of boys who were almost 20 would fall in the final half of the school year and thus be eligible for basketball and track participation, it is planned to revise the rule to read:

"All contestants will become ineligible on their twentieth birthday."

The proposed change will be submitted to the schools next fall and if approved will become effective September 1, 1937.

About This And That In Many Sports

High Golfers Whipped

Circleville high school golfers were "chinned" Wednesday afternoon when they invaded the Arlington course and played the Upper Arlington team. The Tigers failed to score a point, losing 0 to 12—John Jenkins tallied an 84 to pace the local team, but he was beaten both rounds—Others on the Red and Black team were Dick Melson, Bill Fricke, and Raymond Adkins.

Four Schools Entered

The track meet scheduled at the high school Friday afternoon promises to be interesting—Circleville will compete with Washington, Jackson and Pickaway-twins on the local lot—While neither of the rural schools will have as many entrants as the Tigers all will be strong in several events—The janitor would like to see Dean, Muhlenberg's ace in the meet.

Wolves in Action

The wolves have already started to hop on the Columbus Birds though they have played but three games—it would seem that help is needed in the pitching and catching departments. * * * Wait until Bill McKinnon, who is doing the announcing of the contests, gets riled about something, then the fur will fly hither and yon—Mr. McKinnon, remembered five or six years ago as Ohio State university's most severe critic on the football field.

Where Play Ball?

If someone will come forward with a suggestion for a ball field, it is a good wager there will be a softball league—At the present time there is no satisfactory location.

HAYNES, HUGE COLORED FIGHTER, NEW THREAT

PHILADELPHIA, April 16.—(UP)—Leroy (Howitzer) Haynes, Philadelphia's hard-hitting negro heavyweight, was recognized in pugilistic circles today as a "black menace" to Joe Louis' preldge.

Haynes knocked out Native Brown of Washington, the last man to stay the full 10 rounds with the brown bomber, in two rounds last night.

In turning in his fourth better-than Joe Louis performance, Haynes not only elevated himself on the pugilistic ladder but he clinched a contract for three fights this summer at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn. His first opponent is expected to be former heavyweight champion Jack Sharkey on May 27.

Haynes, who is gunning for an ultimate crack at Louis, made it four-up on the famous Detroit dynamiter when he stretched "Cutie" Brown on the floor for the full count at 2:48 of the second round. Previously he had disposed of Primo Carnera in three rounds, Patsy Perroni in seven, and Hans Birke in five, whereas Louis had required six, 10 and 10, respectively, to turn the same tricks.

Six thousand fans in the arena saw Haynes jackknife Brown with a terrific right hook to the stomach in the first round, and stagger him with a left hook to the chin in the second.

BEULAH IS READY FOR ITS OPENING SATURDAY, MAY 9

COLUMBUS, April 16.—First in the horse racing calendar for 1936 in Ohio is the 25-day meeting at Beulah Park which will open on Saturday, May 9, at the Grove City track.

For this inaugural meeting of the fourth year of legal wagering in the Buckeye state, the program is ambitious. Purse distribution in excess of $75,000 has been announced by Harry D. Shepard, president and general manager of the Beulah Park Jockey Club.

Better horses will run for bigger purses in this, the lengthiest spring session that has been attempted at the Grove City oval.

With the start of racing still several weeks away, space in the stables is at a premium. Reservations have been made for 700 horses within the grounds and latecomers will have to find stalls elsewhere in Grove City.

In assigning stalls, Ad B. Miller, secretary of the Jockey Club has selected horses from a long list and the culling-out process insures racers of quality.

The boost in purses is responsible for the keen interest among the horsemen in the opening meeting at Beulah. Purses will range up to $700 this year from a minimum of $300. There will be but few at the latter figure.

The Waite starting gate will be used at Beulah this year. This is the newest device for dispatching fields, being easier to handle and less likely to obscure the vision of the starter than other similar contrivances.

FISHERMEN INVITED TO MEETING STARTING 7:30

All county fishermen have been invited to attend a meeting of the Pickaway Farmers' and Sportsman's association to be held at 7:30 p. m. Thursday in the Elks home.

The purpose of the meeting is to organize an anglers' club and make plans for summer activities.

MILLERS, KAWS ONLY UNBEATEN AA TEAMS

Minneapolis, the defending champion, and Kansas City were the only undefeated teams in the American Association today. Each has won two games.

The Millers defeated Toledo 5 to 4 yesterday while the Blues were winning 5 to 9 from Indianapolis. Two runs in the third put Minneapolis ahead after Toledo had taken a 3 to 2 lead in the first. Each team scored again in the eighth. Phil Page, a southpaw, pitched Kansas City to a six-hit shutout victory over the Indians. St. Paul scored seven runs in the last three innings, five of them in the eighth, to defeat Columbus 8 to 6. The Red Birds held a 6 to 2 lead at the start of the eighth. Louisville stepped off to a four-run lead in the first inning and stayed ahead throughout to defeat Milwaukee 8 to 4.

Remember When?

Route 23 was named "The Scioto Trail."

This name was given the road at a Good Roads convention held in Marion in July 9, 1915. Formerly the road had been designated as Market Road No. 8. Approximately 450 persons attended this convention and 215 were registered from the 12 counties along the route. Addresses were given by Senator Warren G. Harding and Jesse Taylor, president of the Ohio Good Roads federation.

A vote was taken on various names suggested for the highway. Names suggested, other than the one selected, were: "The Harrison Trail," "The Scioto-Harrison Trail," and "The Marion Way."

"The Scioto Trail" will doubtless become a popular highway," was the prediction made at the meeting.

STATE HIGHWAY OFFICIALS SEEK CROSS-CO LANDS

Condemnation Proceeding
Starts; Federal Government to Help With Money

CHILLICOTHE, April 16.—(UP)—Condemnation proceedings were begun in Ross-co common pleas court by the state highway department, Wednesday, to obtain two strips of right of way for the Scioto Trail improvement north of Chillicothe, which is expected to begin April 27.

A total of $1,005.50 was deposited by the highway department with the clerk of courts to be paid by the court as compensation and damages for strips of land belonging to Mary Ginther and Paul H. Shaw and Charles Mariner.

Requires Right of Way
The federal government, which is to share the cost of the improvement, requires an 80-foot right of way on all federal projects. The right of way on the Scioto Trail has been 60 feet wide, but additional land has been obtained from all the property owners except those named in the condemnation proceedings.

For the Ginther property, the highway department posted $655.50 for compensation for the land. For the Shaw and Mariner property, $100 was posted for compensation and $250 for damages.

Name Three Defendants
William E. Thorpe, who has a claim on the Shaw and Mariner land now involved in litigation, was named a defendant in that proceeding and the Scioto Valley Railway & Power Co. and the Columbus Railway, Power & Light Co., holding rights of way for their power lines are named as defendants in both actions.

The contract for the improvement, which was awarded to W. H. Ringwald & Sons Co. has been approved by the federal government and everything is ready for work to begin by April 27. While the road is being built, traffic will be detoured over the Kellenberger bridge and into Chillicothe on Route 104.

HORSE IS BIG HELP

NEW YORK, April 16.—(UP)—John Mulligan won acquittal on a charge of driving when intoxicated when he explained that his bakery wagon horse knew the meanings of red and green lights as well as he did. Magistrate William Oliver substituted another charge, public intoxication, and imposed a one-day jail sentence.
